

THE MOST CELEBRATED SINGER OF THE YEAR (PHILIPPINES)

MARCELITO POMOY

Marcelito Pomoy, a renowned Filipino singer, has captivated audiences with his extraordinary vocal range, seamlessly transitioning between tenor and soprano. At the age of 26, he entered the stage of the second season of Pilipinas Got Talent (PGT) and emerged victorious as the grand winner.

In a significant moment in September 2018, Pomoy showcased his talent on the Metro Manila radio station Wish 107.5, known by its call sign DWNU. There, he mesmerized listeners with his rendition of Celine Dion and Andrea Bocelli's iconic duet, "The Prayer," performed bilingually in English and Italian. Following this performance, the station extended another invitation, prompting Pomoy to enchant the audience with "The Power of Love" by Jennifer Rush, famously covered by Dion.

The Manila radio station performance caught the attention of none other than American television host Ellen DeGeneres. Impressed by Pomoy's exceptional talent, Ellen invited him and his wife to appear on her widely popular show, TheEllenShow. During his appearance, Pomoy showcased his vocal prowess with renditions of "The Prayer" and "Beauty and the Beast," earning international acclaim.

MASTERING THE ART OF TENOR AND SOPRANO

What added to Pomoy's meteoric rise was Ellen's thoughtful gesture – recognizing Celine Dion as his favourite singer, Ellen arranged for Pomoy to attend one of Dion's concerts in Las Vegas and meet her personally. Building on the success garnered from PGT, Pomoy took his talent to an even larger stage, competing in the second season of America's Got Talent: The Champions.

His exceptional performances secured him a respectable fourth-place finish in the competition, further solidifying his status as a global singing sensation. Marcelito Pomoy's journey is not only testament to his incredible vocal abilities but also a remarkable tale of international recognition and appreciation.
